Mississippi is quickly establishing itself as a center for excellence in naval technology and defense innovation. The Gulf Coast is home to critical missions that are driving new technologies and unique partnerships. Supporting these missions requires new thinking, so community, industry and military leaders are forging innovative partnerships that can be models for other communities and installations across the country.

Join us in Gulfport, MS for an all-day forum that will bring together key leaders from DOD, Gulf Coast defense communities, and industry leaders to explore the issues and innovative partnerships that are defining the future of Gulf Coast defense communities.

Registration starts at $50 for early bird registration. Click here to register online.
